2015:

Sovcomflot mulls NKK aframax series sale

Russian tanker giant SCF Group (Sovcomflot) may be set to phase out its series of aframax tankers built at Japan's NKK shipyard 15 years ago.

26 June 2015 0:00 GMT UPDATED 26 June 2015 0:00 GMT

By Andy Pierce London Trond Lillestolen Oslo

Sources say the Russian owner has already committed the 106,000-dwt Kuban (built 2000) to Soechi Lines of Indonesia for $17.2m. This is a firm price given that online platform VesselsValue.com estimates the ship to be worth $15.6m.

Representatives of SCF decline to comment. The Russian owner has another five tankers that appear to be sisterships of the Kuban and these could also be potential sales candidates.

Sovcomflot scrapping trio of aframax tankers

Russian owner set to collect over $20m from demolition of millennial tankers.

23 February 2018 9:39 GMT UPDATED 1 February 2021 10:50 GMT

By Trond Lillestolen

Russian owner Sovcomflot (SCF Group) has sold three aframax tankers for demolition, sources say.

The NKK built 106,000-dwt Kuban (built 2000), Moscow and Moscow Kremlin (both built 1998) have been sold as is in Singapore for $420 per ldt or $6.7m each.

Sovcomflot did not respond to requests for comments.
