GENERAL VESSEL INFORMATION:

On 29 September 1998, the Venezuelan registered petroleum tanker "MORUY" was proceeding up the St. Lawrence River bound for Montreal, Quebec, with a cargo of 31,653 metric tonnes of diesel oil. Under the conduct of a pilot, the tanker was in the vicinity of Champlain, Quebec, when the vessel experienced a partial electrical failure affecting the steering system. Despite attempts to regain control and before an anchor could be dropped, the vessel grounded near buoy C-17. The vessel's forepeak was ruptured but there was no pollution and no one was injured. On October 1 at approximately 1000 the "MORUY" was refloated with the assistance of tugs and escorted to Trois-Rivières, Quebec, for inspection. There was no pollution as a result of the grounding and no one was injured.
