US removes tanker and owner from Venezuela sanctions blacklist

Marshall Islands-registered Monsoon Navigation Corp and the 106,200-dwt aframax Oceano (built 1994) are off the blacklist maintained by the US Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Asset Control (Ofac), the agency said Monday.

The two were sanctioned in May, when the tanker was called the Ocean Elegance, on accusations of shipping oil from Venezuela to Cuba this year and in 2018 amid a broader US crackdown against Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro's regime over the summer.

The aframax tanker, according to shipping databases, is now called the Oceano and has been owned and managed by Panama-based Fainan Investments since April.

Prior to that, its listed owner was Monsoon from September 2008.
